

Answer all the questions

Exercise 1: Complete the following dialogue with correct responses in the spaces provided (5 marks)

Waitress: Rice and vegetable sauce.

Mary: I will do so on Monday.

Mary: I want to register at the University.

Son: _____ very much for it.

Son: Yes, Dad, I will.

_____ you have a valid passport (if, your examinations this year.

a) You can't travel to Europe _____ (until, unless, because)

b) This is the worst disaster we have since, already) seen, (never, ever,

c) He _____ faced his opponent in the fight, (courage, courageous, courageously, encouraging)

d) I have _____ living here for ten years, (being, been, be, to be)

e) The minister hasn't signed the documents yet. has, have, is) he? (hasn't,

SECTION B: VOCABULARY (10 marks)/

Exercise 1: Fill in the blank spaces in the following sentences with your own words or expressions (5 marks)

a) Climate . _____ is affecting our environment.

b) The _____ is not to blame for the plane crash.

c) You need to do your HIV test to know your _ _____

d) Take the accident victims quickly to the _____ unit of the hospital.

e) Modem _____ has enabled us to have mobile phones and computers.

Exercise 2: Fill in the blanks with the appropriate word or expression from the brackets (5 marks)

a) You better go to the nearest _____ and buy an original textbook, (librai, school, bookshop, bookcentre)

b) How many _____ hospitals do we have in the country?
(referral, reference, refering, refer)

c) A _____ enables one to see tiny organisms, (computer, telescope, microscope, thermometer)

d) Darwin is the father of the theory of . _____ (evolutittg, evolvment, evolution, ovulation)

e) Arlnold Decan works as a _____ with NASA, (scientific, scientifical, science, scientist)

SECTION C: COMPREHENSION (10 marks).-

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. Use complete sentences and use your own words*

All around me, I see people falling in love, walking in love, growing with the love they have found - and it accentuates aloneness. For here I am, having conceived two children, given one away, about to bear another alone. And all I ever wanted was love. All I ever longed for was a home and strong arms to hold me so I could sleep through the night, I wanted someone who would be there with me to meet the morning.

When I was 15, I never thought the next nine years would bring me such despair, emptiness and sorrow. Now at 24, I am still alone. While you are waiting for love to come to you, I have destroyed the hope of waiting because I was never willing to wait. I was so hungry for love that I tried to taste it all too early, too fast and now there is little left.

You cannot sell in the game of love and win. To compare it with playing cards, once you've played your ace - given your whole self - the game is over; and if ever you want to play again, you will have to play with a worn deck, but with a new partner. The deck gets pretty shabby looking after a while and you will be sad because it is the only deck you have. And if your "King" turns out to be a joker, you pick up the cards and berate yourself for being so blind.

The agony becomes even more real when you see that things could have been very different. If you had known the rules to play by, you might have lost the king you thought you wanted, but your deck would have stayed intact, beautiful, indeed a king could be.

The fear you feel when you love someone and say "No" to him, and the pain that; could come if he leaves you for saying "No" seems awesome and devastating to you now - but the greater pain comes when you say "Yes" and he tires of you, calling you "not the kind of girl he wants to marry". You may choose not to believe me, but it is true.

A man who truly loves you will not ask for your body first. He will ask if you will marry him. He will ask to be the one to provide for you and meet your needs so you can give him in all truth and confidence the secret of your soul. He will see the sacred beauty of your gift and will handle it with the gentleness of the man beholding the pearl he has sought for so long.

Value yourself, for you are very precious. Don't sell out. Any price you're given less than a love willing to commit itself - that price is too cheap. Waiting may seem very hard for you. You think so because you are young and still carry the impatience of a child. Learn patience; it is the beginning of self discipline, a lesson that must be learned sooner or later., The sooner you learn it, the greater the joy, the lesser you sorrow. I know I have to learn it now, and I wish I had learned it then,*,

(Culled from The Christian Reader vol. 13 N°1, January/February 1975)

Questions

1. _____ M ention any two things the writer notices around her _____

(2 marks)

2. What happened to the writer at the age of 15?

(2 marks)

3. Mention any two consequences mentioned in the text on a girl who easily says "Yes" to a man. (2marks)

4. How does a man who really love behave? (2 marks)

5. What advice does the writer give young people? Is this necessary? Justify (2 marks)

&

SECTION P: ESSAY (10 marks)

Write an essay of between 250 - 300 words on one of the followings topics:

1. Modern technology has brought more harm than good to the society. Do you agree?
2. The problems of youths and possible solutions#
3. You accompanied a hunter to a hunting expedition. Tell the story.